

*The Times Higher Education
Supplement,
11 May 2007*

‘Barcelona tackles London rival’

Barcelona tackles London rival

The London School of Economics should be afraid. The Barcelona Graduate School of Economics intends to give the LSE a run for its money with five economics masters taught in English at its beachfront campus. Andreu Mas-Colell, distinguished economist and president of Barcelona GSE, said last week: “They should be worried. We are coming.”

Many Minds.
Singular Results.™