The Barcelona Graduate School of Economics

The Barcelona GSE is the culmination of many years of collaborative work by four high-caliber and well-established institutions: the Department of Economics and Business of the Universitat Pompeu Fabra (UPF), the Unit of Economic Analysis of the Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona (UAB), the Institute for Economic Analysis (IAE) of the Spanish Research Council (CSIC), and the Centre for Research in International Economics (CREI). The four founding academic institutions of the School, which will be the source of most of its faculty, are consistently ranked as among the leading economics departments in Europe in terms of research. In addition, the two university departments organize two of the top European PhD Programs in Economics: the International Doctorate in Economic Analysis (IDEA) at the UAB, and the Graduate Program in Economics, Finance and Management (GPEFM) at the UPF. The Barcelona GSE offers for the 2007-2008 academic year five top quality masters and a variety of summer school courses.

Although the Barcelona GSE is a young school, it draws on the strengths and noteworthy reputation of its founding academic institutions, and enjoys close collaboration with them in teaching and research as well as in the shared use of resources. It is this combination of innovation and accumulated experience that makes the Barcelona GSE an attractive place to study.
